

Weather

On an average July day, the weather changes from fair in the morning to partly cloudy during the late afternoon and evening. There are frequent afternoon rain showers or thunderstorms during the month and the average July rainfall of 2.8 inches is normally spread over 15 days. On six of these 15 days thunderstorms can be expected to develop and the most usual time of occurrence is 1-6 p.m. July's mean temperature of 66 degrees is three degrees warmer than June's. The highest temperature ever recorded in Berlin (99° F) occurred in July; however, the average daily high is a comfortable 73° F. The average daily minimum is 59° F, with 43° F being the lowest ever recorded during the month.

Volksfest Music To Include Both Bagpipes, Soul

The sound of bagpipe music was no stranger to the old West but the sound of modern soul music is a different story. They will both be a part of the entertainment at the 1971 Wild West Volksfest in Dahlem.

The sound of the pipes will be provided by the Gary Owens Pipers whose long and glorious history dates back to the time of General George Armstrong Custer and the 7th Cavalry. The group was organized in 1866 and originally consisted of Irish immigrants who were former members of the 5th Royal Irish Lancers. Their debut came two years later when they sounded the signal for an attack against the Cheyenne Indians. The tune that they chose for that momentous occasion was "Garry-owen" (literally translated "John's Garden") a popular Irish drinking song.

Custer liked the melody so much that it was adopted as the regimental march. The name stuck as even today all 7th Cavalry troopers are called Gary Owens.

The "Soul Sounds" of South Bend, Ind. may not have the history that the Pipers do, but they are not newcomers to the stage either. The group, from the South Bend Y.M.C.A., is acclaimed for its big band approach to the music of today and has enjoyed a wide and enthusiastic following on college campuses throughout the Midwestern part of the United States.

Neither group is a stranger to the Volksfest — the Pipers were here last year and the "Soul Sounds" performed in 1969. So whether your musical tastes run along the lines of traditional or contemporary, there will be music for you at the 11th German-American Volksfest, July 23-Aug. 8.

Baby Care, Rooms Needed

Baby sitters and extra quarters are needed during the 11th annual German-American Volksfest to be held July 23 — Aug. 8.

Many of those participating in the 1971 Volksfest have small children and will be in need of a baby sitting service during the 17 days of Volksfest. To accommodate these people the Volksfest is asking prospective baby sitters, at least 15 years of age and interested in earning a little extra money, to contact the Berlin

Moving Means Problems; RTO Solves Them

by John Freeman
EDITOR'S NOTE: Getting orders to a new station usually brings a little flush of excitement until you remember that moving often brings extra worries and problems — especially if a family is involved. In the following interview with Captain David C. Rowe, chief of the Rail Operations Branch, some important facts and suggestions are touched upon.

Q: After receiving Alert or Permanent Change of Station (PCS) orders, what is the first step in getting ready to move?

A: Report to the Rail Transportation Office (RTO) immediately. One of our biggest problems is people coming in a week before they're to leave asking to be packed out. This puts a strain on the workload and other packing jobs frequently have to be rescheduled, causing inconvenience to all concerned.

At the RTO, pick up a copy of DA pamphlet 55-2, "Personal Property Shipping Information." This booklet covers general information on the member's entitlements and his responsibilities. Also pick up DD Form 1701, "Personal Property Inventory," and fill it out completely. This helps to estimate your Household Goods (HHG) weight. A HHG clerk will then schedule an interview for you.

Q: When is the best time to move?
A: If at all possible, try to move "off season." Almost 70 per cent of the year's moves take place in the summer season between May and September. The transit times of these shipments increase due to the overloaded transportation system.

The RTO handles HHG for all military and civilian personnel connected with the Department of Defense in Berlin, and for the best service, the member should notify the RTO as soon as possible, regardless of the time of year.

Q: What happens then?

A: Before showing up at the RTO for your interview, make sure that you have read the Personal Property Shipping Information pamphlet, and that DD Form 1701 (the inventory) is complete.

Bring at least 16 copies of your PCS orders to the interview. It is also extremely advisable to bring your wife to the meeting. She normally knows more than anyone else how things are to be run around the house for the move.

At the interview, the counselor will advise the member on shipping entitlements based on his PCS orders, rank and new duty station. The member will be informed of his weight allowance, too.

Q: How many pounds of HHG are authorized for shipment?

A: Berlin personnel are authorized 2,000 pounds or 25 per cent of their Joint Travel Regulation (JTR) allowance (whichever is greater).

For example, a married E-7 with two children would be allowed 3,400 pounds for the family. This is 2,125 pounds of HHG for the E-7 (25 per cent of his JTR of 8,500), plus 400 pounds of unaccompanied baggage. Each dependent (say a wife and a 13-year-old daughter) are allowed another 350 pounds of baggage, and the other dependent (say a son under 12) receives a weight allowance of 175 pounds.

Q: What preparations should be made for the actual moving day?

A: At the interview, a firm packing date should have been set. Be sure to be home when the movers come — your presence insures that you will receive the kind of service that the Government is paying for.

But start getting your house ready for the move before the packers arrive. Take down all pictures and wall decorations — this is not the packers' job. Clean and dry your refrigerator, washer and dryer. Remember to remove all articles that are not to be packed (such as passports, personal records, etc.).

Two Former Brigade Soldiers Honored by Secretary Volpe

Two former members of the Berlin Brigade have been commended by Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe for their aid in maintaining order during a recent transatlantic flight.

Gene Elbe and Roger Kalinowski, formerly assigned to the Office of the U. S. Commander, Berlin and Special Services, respectively, while passengers in a Boeing 747 en route from London to New York, were requested by the captain of the aircraft to assist in quieting an unruly passenger who had previously threatened a stewardess. Elbe and Kalinowski kept the passenger under their observation and control, "thus restoring a measure of tranquility to the crew and . . . fellow passengers" of the aircraft, according to Volpe's letter commending the two.

The letter continues, "As a result of your cooperative and responsible attitude, order was restored to the aircraft, the captain was able properly to devote his abilities and attention to the plane in flight and the stewardess and passengers were freed from harassment and anxiety."

"I salute you, . . . instantly responsive and instinctively chivalrous. I personally am gratified for the occasion to be able to express my appreciation for your assistance in helping us to keep our civilian aircraft secure from this type of unpleasantness and threat of danger."

Parade, Honor Ceremony Mark Independence Day

On Monday, U. S. Forces in Berlin will celebrate their 26th Independence Day in the Divided City. The program will consist of a parade and honor ceremony on the 4-Ring in Lichterfelde.

Ceremonies will begin at 9:30 a.m. with the arrival of the U. S. Commander, Berlin, Major General William W. Cobb.

Following his arrival, the 50 State flags and the Honor Guard will take up positions to the front of the reviewing stand and excerpts from the Declaration of Independence will be read.

A "Salute to the Nation" will then be presented. The names of the 50 states will be called in the order in which they entered the Union. As the date of admission to the Union and the flag of the state are presented, a salute to that state will be fired. The National Anthem will then be played by the 298th Army Band.

The parade will be led by the Berlin Brigade commander and his staff. Then, in their order of march, will come the 298th Army Band; 2nd Battalion, 6th Infantry; the Color Guard; 3rd Battalion, 6th Infantry; 4th Battalion, 18th Infantry; and an Air Force element from Tempelhof Central Airport.

Vehicle units from the infantry battalions, 42nd Engineer Company and 40th Armor will follow the foot elements in the parade, which is expected to end by 10:30 a.m.

For Rent

The Berlin Brigade Housing Referral Office (HRO), located at Engineer and Installations Compound, announced this week that it has 300 efficiency apartments available for Aug. 1.

The apartments, which have combined living-bedrooms, are completely furnished and are located approximately 30 minutes (by bus) from McNair Barracks. Interested personnel should contact the HRO at 6688 as soon as possible.

Our Document

On July 4 we celebrate the signing of our Declaration of Independence.

It has been 195 years since that document was signed. But as documents go, the Declaration of Independence is barely passing into adulthood. England's Magna Carta, for example, is more than 700 years old.

Every Fourth of July we celebrate brings us closer to the bicentennial of our independence. In the mileage of history you might say it is just around the corner.

LET FREEDOM RING....

But our growth to the leadership of the Free World in less than two centuries is a miraculous chapter in the annals of man. Our youth is our triumph, acknowledged by nations whose history is as old as civilization.

The Declaration of Independence serves as our guide and our inspiration. Its basic principles seem a perfect definition of that elusive phrase, "The American Way."

Yes, it's true we are a young nation in years, but we'll never grow so old this famous passage from the Declaration of Independence will lose its meaning:

"That all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. . . ." (AFPS Editorial)

New Train Route to Paris Shortens Traveling Time

A new train from Paris into Germany this summer is making individual rail travel more pleasant for Berlin Duty Train riders.

The train is one of several summer schedule changes affecting personnel in the Divided City. Formerly there were two direct connections from Paris to the duty trains. One left Paris-East Station at 8:45 a.m. for Frankfurt. The other left Paris-North Station at 8:18 a.m. for Hannover, where the duty train from Bremerhaven arrived after a long layover.

Now travelers can reduce the time they spend in Hannover and make their morning Paris departure at a more leisurely hour. The new train, which carries a snack-bar car, leaves Paris-North Station daily at 10:37 a.m. Travelers from Madrid can use the train, too, by a taxicab or subway connection from their overnight train's arrival at Austerlitz Station. The new train from Paris enters Germany via the historic Belgian battlefields around Liege, ending its run at Cologne. A connecting express puts travelers in Hannover for their military train.

Another change affecting Berlin personnel is the new British military train schedule. The British train now leaves Berlin at 8:10 a.m., a full hour earlier than its former time. This provides a completely new set of connections to western European points.

Further information on the new Paris-Germany train, and on other summer specials, is available from travel agencies. Information on the British military train is obtained at the Allied Train Reservation Office, Berlin Brigade Headquarters.

Rock Concerts Big Business Now; Backers Usually Make 20% Profit

by John G. Freeman

Rock concerts are, along with a multitude of other things, extremely interesting to compare.

From the early Beatle stadium-packed shows to the standing-room-only Grand Funk gigs, it's obvious that someone is hauling in a lot of money.

In general, promoters are making a gamble with a rock concert. Many concerts, especially the two-day-or-longer festivals, fall apart — gates are crashed, city officials protest, musicians don't show up. But in spite of these risks and hardships, concerts are still held. Why? Because the promoter can usually count on a 20 per cent return on his investment, and this is a worthwhile profit.

Several large producers in the U.S. easily earn over a million dollars a year. Sight and Sound, based in Los Angeles, estimates that 50 per cent of its three million-a-year business comes from rock. In Beverly Hills, Concert Associates report that revenue from rock concerts accounts for 85 per cent of their two million-a-year sales.

Facts Future Vets Should Know

Here's a time-table on benefits from the Veterans Administration for veterans, after their separation from military service.

The agency said a veteran has 10 days to notify any local Selective Service Board of his address, and 30 days to register if he did not do so before entering military service.

If a veteran wants his old job back, he has 90 days to apply to his former employer for re-employment.

He has 120 days to convert his Servicemen's Group Life Insurance (SGLI) to an individual policy without examination. If totally disabled at separation, a veteran has up to one year, if his condition does not change, to convert his insurance.

In either case, he must apply for the policy to one of the nearly 600 private companies participating in the SGLI program.

A veteran with a service-connected disability has one year from the date he receives his notice of service-connection to apply to VA for Service-Disabled Veterans Insurance.

He also has one year to apply for VA dental care, or to request unemployment compensation from his local state employment service.

Veterans have eight years from date of separation to apply for and receive educational assistance benefits, which terminate after that time.

For a veteran with a service-connected injury or disease, there is no time limit for applying for VA disability compensation, but in order to receive payments dated from the time of his separation from military service, he must apply within one year of separation.

There is no time limit for a veteran to be assisted by his local state employment service in finding a job or job training program.

Nor is there a time limit to obtain hospital care, or to obtain a GI loan to buy, build, or improve a home or to buy a farm.

For more details, veterans should contact their local VA office, or local veterans service organization representatives.

Tom Yarbrough, valedictorian of the senior class, received a $1,000 scholarship and Katrin Lindroth, class salutatorian, and Pascal Sherrod each received $500 scholarships from the American Women's Club of Berlin.

Patricia Maryland was awarded a $500 scholarship by the Parent Teachers Association.

A $250 scholarship from the Air Force Sergeants Club was awarded to John Freeman while Ronda Whittington received a $100 scholarship from the Tempelhof Officers' Wives Club.

Rhonda Whittington, Linda Tharpe and Steve Reisler were each awarded a $300 scholarship by the National Honor Society "Outpost of Freedom" Chapter in conjunction with the National Junior Honor Society "Island of Freedom" Chapter.

In addition, the National Honor Society "Outpost of Freedom" Chapter and the National Junior Society "Island of Freedom" Chapter presented $100 to the high school's Athletic Fund.

Program To Provide Low Rent Housing

WASHINGTON (ANF) — Lower income military families will now be given priority in selected projects in certain designated areas under the lower income rental housing program of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Approximately 4,000 units will be made available initially through new construction in selected military areas designated by the Department of Defense (DOD) as having an acute housing shortage.

HUD and the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) annually will set aside funds for construction earmarked for military priority use. This year the amount set aside is $4 million for installations in 14 designated areas.

DOD is responsible for recommending areas where additional housing for military families is needed. They will also screen qualified lower income military families and submit names to the housing owner.

For a military family to be eligible, the applicant must be serving on active duty and must reasonably be expected to remain in the area for at least a year. His income must be within the program's limits for the locality.

If at any time there are no eligible military families on the waiting list, the owner may rent any vacant unit to an eligible civilian family.

As with other housing under the program, projects may consist of one-family detached homes, town houses or other housing types best suited to the area.

Scholarships Awarded To Sixteen Students

The German-American Scholarship Fund awarded scholarships to nine American and seven Berlin students in a ceremony at the Senat Guest House Saturday morning.

Major General William W. Cobb, U. S. Commander, Berlin, announced the names of the American recipients and, together with Berlin Governing Mayor Klaus Schuetz, presented the awards to the German winners.

The German-American Scholarship Fund was founded in April 1970 by a group of German and American Berliners to raise funds for scholarships so that deserving students in the U. S. and Germany might attend universities in their respective countries. The main fund raising event this year was Promenade '71, held May 21 at the Academy of Arts, at which approximately DM 85,000 was raised through ticket sales and contributions. The Honorable Kenneth Rush, American Ambassador to the Federal Republic of Germany, and the Governing Mayor of Berlin, Klaus Schuetz, acted as honorary chairmen of the event.

The Scholarship Committee received nominations from about 30 universities in the U. S. and from various sources in Germany from which the present American and German scholarship recipients were selected.

Beat Ambulance to Hospital 2/6 Medics Display Fast Work

by SP4 Larry Maloney

"Attention in the company area! Attention in the company area! Any medic — repeat — any medic — report to the orderly room ASAP." The call echoed almost inaudibly off the concrete walls of the barracks that house Headquarters Company, 2nd Battalion, 6th Infantry.

In one of the rooms of the building a man lay on the floor in what appeared to be convulsions. Friends in the room at the time ran down to the orderly room to get help. Within 30 seconds, the call was responded to by five of the medics that live in the barracks, and they were on the scene to give first aid to the stricken soldier. An ambulance had even been called but before it arrived, the medics had taken the man directly to the hospital.

This all happened within a span of ten minutes, the kind of quick action that saves lives and generally goes unrewarded. In this particular case, the man was suffering from severe stomach cramps brought on by an intestinal infection. While he probably would not have died had the medics been a little slower in their response, the soldier was spared a considerable amount of pain.

This is only one of many more or less serious incidents that are part of the job of a medic stationed with the infantry in Berlin. "Somebody usually manages to cut themselves in a bad way where it will require a trip to the hospital to stitch them up. Either that or they fall down and get a bad sprain or fracture, or a broken finger, or something. From the three battalions, there is usually one person per week treated at the hospital for injuries of this type," relates Specialist Five John W. Shmanda, who has been a medic in the Guardian Battalion for over a year.

"One time there was a man who was suffocating from a foreign object obstructing his breathing. When the medics got there it was necessary for them to perform mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and emergency cardiac pressure-to-the-chest procedures to make sure he maintained his breathing and pulse rate. Then they rushed him to the hospital. He recovered completely," Shmanda recalled.

Beside the various kinds of emergencies, the Guardian Battalion medics have enumerable requests for free medical advice. People seem to think that the ten weeks training that a medic receives in the Army equips him to diagnose almost any illness. Of this Shmanda says, "Guys will come up to us complaining of various aches and pains and want to know what the problem is. If we know, we tell them. Most often we tell them to go on sick call and see the battalion surgeon to find out for sure. Some of these small complaints can turn out to be something very serious. We also get a lot of requests for aspirin, usually on weekends!"

Then, when any part of the battalion goes out in the field to train or to one of the ranges, the medics are right there with their FLA (Front Line Ambulance), ready for any emergency. The FLA is equipped with three litters, an aid bag and a couple of ammo cans filled with medical equipment.

Down at the Major Training Area in Hohenfels, West Germany, all of their duties increase. "More of the battalion is out in the field for longer periods of time. Whenever some of them are out there, we're out there," say Shmanda.

Other duties for the medics of the Guardian Battalion include: drivers for the FLAs and the dispensary van; CQ (Charge of Quarters) in the company; and, for the ones who work at the dispensary, CQ there. They must also pull details and occasionally march in parades.

The medics of the 2nd Battalion, 6th Infantry have an important and difficult mission — preparing for the unexpected, possibly with the stakes being a human life.

Vacation Class Ends at School

Vacation Church School ended its summer session Sunday at the Thomas A. Roberts School. Approximately 350 youngsters of both the Protestant and Catholic faiths attended the religious education exercises.

Vacation Church School existed for several purposes: to communicate the truths of the biblical revelation; to identify the historical progression of faith in God and the relevance to the life and history of mankind; and to build feelings of trust, love and confidence in children by providing them with a climate in which this kind of human growth can develop and mature.

Concerning the Vacation Church School, Major Sam McCuskey, Sunday school superintendent, remarked, "A basic goal for every religious entity is to achieve a sense of responsibility as broad as one's concerns and as compelling as the dangers and opportunities one confronts. Our faith is that mankind lives not by bread alone, but by self-respect, by regard for others, and by convictions of right and justice."

Twins Place Four Players On AYA All Star Team

The AYA has announced the 1971 Major League all star team with the first half runner-up Twins dominating the squad with four regulars and two alternates.

The 14-player team, coached by Carmen DeMarco of the Twins and Bill Grunewald of the Orioles, will leave July 10 to travel to Bonn to meet Giessen July 12 in the first round of the European All Star Tournament.

The other two teams in the tourney are Bonn and Bremerhaven.

Leading the team are Spencer Liepman, Bill Curry, Kenny Morphis and Eddie Cole of the Twins, who lost a playoff to the Mets for the first half championship. Stan Donnell and Joe Martel were picked as alternates on the team.

Representing the Mets will be Doug McPherson and Walter Nettles, who provided the offensive spark in the playoff win over the Twins. Randy Russell was chosen as an alternate.

The Tigers and Orioles both had three players making the team. Eric Oliver, Ronald Miller and Richard Rohloff will represent the Tigers, along with alternate Richard Allen.

The Orioles placed David Howley, Cliff Thompson and John Trivelli on the team.

The Astros were the only team that failed to place a player on the squad.

ting attack as they managed only 47 runs, lowest in the league, while batting .221 as a team.

Berlin hasn't been much more impressive at the plate with the second lowest run-output in the league, 49. The Bears batted only .220 as a team and have only two batters hitting over .270.

Player-coach Gene Stephenson is batting a solid .295 and outfielder Greg Hildebrand is hitting at a .286 clip.

The top pitcher on the Bears' staff has been Bob Wallis, who only has a 2-3 record but is sporting an ERA of 2.20. He has also struck out 49 batters in 41 innings pitched.

The other probable starting pitchers for Berlin will be Wayne Gollaher and Mickey Rogers. Steve Bunker, the team's cleanup hitter and one of the three starting pitchers, has completed his military service and returned to the U. S.

Yanks Chalk Up Tenth Straight Victory As Second Half Rally Ruins Luma, 5-0

by SP4 Robert Carmany

The U. S. Forces soccer team unleashed its potent second half attack in typical fashion and crushed Luma, 5-0, Thursday, June 24 at the Volkspark on Blissestrasse. The win, the tenth against no losses, set up the crucial encounter with Mibag, which was played at Tempelhof yesterday.

In tuning up for the Mibag tilt, the Yanks scored four of their goals after the intermission while another fine defensive effort stymied the Luma team for the entire game.

From the outset of the game, it appeared that the Luma team had elected to rely on their defense. They massed as many as seven defenders in front of their goal in an effort to keep the Americans from scoring.

These tactics were moderately successful and, although they pressed with eight attackers at times, the U. S. Forces was unable to score until midway through the half.

Beware of Golf Balls

Last year the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness reported the case of a fourth-grader in Oklahoma City who picked up an old golf ball on his way to school. In school, he stuck the point of his drawing compass into the ball and it exploded, spraying the liquid core contents into his eyes.

Two classmates immediately led him to the water fountain to wash out his eyes, a third classmate got their teacher and they flushed his eyes for several minutes.

When his mother arrived, she took him to an ophthalmologist who advised that, though the boy's eyes were burned, they were not permanently damaged. Though his vision was temporarily blurred following treatment, full sight has now returned.

Each youngster was later awarded a recognition plaque from the National Society and an NSPB pin for their quick-thinking, which undoubtedly prevented serious damage to the boy's eyes.

The above case illustrates how dangerous an innocent-looking golf ball can be in the hands of a curious boy who wants to "see what's inside." According to the Society, which has received reports of a number of serious eye injuries caused by exploding golf balls, few such encounters turn out as well as this one.

With the growing interest and participation in golf at this time of the year, it can be expected that more and more golf balls will be left lying around the garage, or lost around the garage or along the fence rows, waiting for some youngsters to pick them up. If your off-the-job safety activity needs a good topic, there is one that has the potential for helping prevent serious injury, and possibly blindness, to a child.

Most golf balls have a liquid core containing a chemical compound under pressure of up to 2,500 pounds per square inch. A partial list of possible ingredients in this compound includes sulfuric acid, sodium hydroxide, zinc sulfide, barium salts, ethylene glycol, lead oxide paste, castor oil and even water.

The National Society urges parents to teach their children the dangers of cutting or puncturing golf balls, and to keep golf balls on the fairway, and out of the hands of youngsters. (AFPS)

Jim Elwood's corner kick was headed by Randy Achenbach and the Luma goalkeeper was able to just barely deflect it. However, inside left Rod Smith headed the deflected ball into the goal to give the Americans a 1-0 advantage, which they held until halftime.

The decision to concentrate on defense proved to be the undoing of the Luma team as many of their players were virtually exhausted by the time the intermission whistle blew.

The second half was only a minute old when the Yanks were able to increase their lead to 2-0. Outside right Harry Gonyer was able to steal a pass following the kickoff and streaked in alone on the Luma goalie to score from about ten yards out to put the U. S. Forces team up, 2-0.

Shortly thereafter, Smith took a pass from right half Noel Yarr and scored from just inside the penalty area to give the Big Blue a 3-0 lead.

Player-coach Bill Cheney got the next goal for the Americans as he was able to recover his own rebound and slam the ball into the nets from sixteen yards out.

Elwood got the last score of the day as he took a pass from Yarr and blasted a short shot into the goal to give the Yanks their 5-0 win.

The victory was the seventh shut-out for the Americans and boosted their goal production to 35 while their stingy defense has allowed but three.

When It Rains, It Popours Giants Drench Dodgers' Hopes

The Dodgers appeared to have the first half Minor League championship wrapped up, but a one-man wrecking crew named Bob Popour laid waste to their plans Saturday.

After reeling off 10 wins in a row, the Dodgers went into their last game of the half against the Giants with a chance to win the title outright. With two straight lopsided wins over the Giants under their belt, the Dodgers appeared to be unstoppable.

But they had failed to reckon with Popour. The Giant righthander threw a one-hitter, struck out 12 batters and paced the Giant attack with two doubles, a towering home run and four RBIs.

It all added up to a 6-3 win for the Giants, giving them third place and setting up the possibility of a play off between the Dodgers and Cardinals for first place.

The Dodgers finished the half with a 10-2 mark, losing their first and last games, while the Cards are 9-2 with a make-up game against the winless Reds left. If a playoff is necessary it will be held Sunday at 1 p.m. at the Minor League field.

The Giants finished at 5-5 after losing their first three games.

The Dodgers jumped to a 3-0 lead over the Giants in the first inning without the aid of a hit. But the Giants bounced back with two runs of their own as Popour doubled over the leftfielder's head in the bottom of the inning.

In the second, the Dodgers picked up their only hit of the game, a pop fly to center, but failed to score. Popour was untouchable the rest of the way and he gave himself all the runs he needed in the third when he lofted his homer over the left-center field fence with a man on.

Bob doubled again his last time up, giving him a string of seven straight hits over a two-game span.

The one-man show by Popour overshadowed a strong performance turned in by a trio of Cardinal pitchers two days earlier. Terry McCaw, John Paugh and Eric Ziel teamed up to throw a combined no-hitter at the Reds as the Cards breezed to a 13-0 win. Each pitcher hurled two innings of hitless ball.

Sox Dominate Senior Team

Six players from the first place Red Sox head the Senior League all star team that will represent Berlin in the European Tournament at Bremerhaven July 14.

Gary Robinson, Doug Jennings, Ralph Furguson, Roy Edwards, Bobby Robinson and John Rutherford lead the team that will face the winner of the Bremerhaven-Hessen game in the playoffs.

The Berlin team will leave July 10 to travel to the tourney, which also includes Rhein-Main, Frankfurt and Wiesbaden.

Ken Moore of the Indians and Clark Hall of the Yankees are the coaches of the team.

Representing the second place Yankees on the team are Robert Wilson, Gregg Swift, Mike Howley and Jerry Gutierrez.

The Indians placed Tony Garrels, Paul Garrison and Jim Phillips on the squad while Paul McGarry was the only Senator chosen.

The alternates on the team are Marvin Lindroth, Kevin Lindroth and Joe Walsh of the Indians; Tom Dauberman and Curt Oliver of the Senators and Russ Krimming of the Yankees.

International Film Festival
Top Attraction Over Weekend

by Judy Pricks

Where many big cities are a bit dead entertainmentwise in the summer, Berlin is really going all out this time of year — maybe it's to make up for a lack of sun?

Anyway, this weekend there are still a great many films waiting to be seen for the last lap of the International Berlin Film Festival. Last week's OBSERVER gave the details of what movie houses are showing which kind of film. Let it be said again, that language is no problem. Ear phones are available for French, English and German soundtracks, since all films are shown in their original version.

Americans will be especially interested in the retrospective film program at the Film Buehne Wien where the oldies but goodies with Eddie Cantor and the musicals which started it all by Busby Berkeley are showing. Around town as well as on the bulletin boards at the entrance to the Consulate (right across from the PX) detailed posters inform you of what is playing where and when. There are usually three showings a day — in the afternoon and twice in the evening. If you go in the afternoon you get cheaper tickets, and if you're under 25, you get a reduction also for the 2nd and 3rd showings.

Fans of "Miss" contests will want to visit the "New Eden" on the Kudamm tonight, because the finals for the "Miss Film Festival" contest will be held there.

Bach Festival

While on the subject of festivals, it is high time to mention the upcoming "Bach Days 1971," which will be held from July 14-18 for the second time in Berlin. The demand for tickets was so great last year that all events were sold out way ahead of time, so it is not too early to purchase tickets for this event.

Focal point this year is the "Brandenburg Concertos," which Bach dedicated to Christian Ludwig von Brandenburg 250 years ago. Furthermore, works will be performed which belong to the historic picture of Johann Sebastian Bach, which include several modern compositions which would not have been written without Bach's influence. The Bach tradition is also kept alive by the big boys' choirs from England, as will be demonstrated during the "Bach Days."

Lectures as well as performances in churches round out the program. Ticket prices range from DM 3 to 15 and reservations can be made at any ticket agency or at the office of the "Bach Days" on Haehnelstrasse 9, telephone 851-8324. Check the schedule under "Events in Town" for the detailed program scheduled for the "Bach Days." Events taking place in the Charlottenburg Castle will be sold out quickest, because of the limited seating capacity there.

Looking back on all the "damp" weekends lately, it seems silly to write about outdoor concerts, but the weatherman just might make it one of these days.

write about outdoor concerts, but the weatherman just might make it one of these days.

Jazz in the Garden

Tonight another session of "Jazz in the Garden" is planned in the sculpture garden of the New National Gallery. Hopefully John Tchicai and his "Naked Hamlet Ensemble" will really get to play among the sculptures. Otherwise the performance will be moved to the Ernst Reuter Haus on the Strasse des 17. Juni 135. Aside from Tchicai and his free jazz group, which gained fame in Zurich where they performed during the "Naked Hamlet" production there, the German vibraphone player Karl Berger, who has been very successful in the States, will be part of the program. The jazz evening is to begin at 7 p.m. and tickets cost DM 5.

EARLY COLLAGE — English Dancer, 1928, is but one of many of the works of Hannah Höch which can be seen through Sunday at the Academy of Arts.

At the beautifully situated Haus am Waldsee (on Argentinische Allee 30), a "Serenade in the Park" is planned for tonight at 8 p.m. The Chamber Orchestra of Zehlendorf will play selections by Vivaldi, Ricciotti, Corelli and Boccherini. In case of inclement weather, it will be postponed to July 9. Tickets cost only DM 2 for adults and DM 1 for youngsters and are available at the door.

Last but not least for this weekend on the list of outdoor events optimistically listed here, is the "Serenade Concert" on the outdoor stage next to the Citadel in Spandau. The Haydn Orchestra Berlin is planning to perform a program made up of works by Greta, Devienne, Mozart, Torelli and Haydn at 7 p.m. on Sunday. It costs only DM 3 to attend and you can buy your tickets at the gate to the pretty little theater. This serenade will not be postponed if the weather is bad, but will be moved inside to the festival hall of the Citadel.

Hannah Höch

For lack of summer weather, a gallery visit might be the proper undertaking for this Fourth of July weekend. In the Academy of Arts in the Hansa District a gay and pretty exhibit of collages by Hannah Höch is awaiting the visitor for the last time this weekend. Hannah Höch has been called the "singer" among the collagists, and the "music" of her pasted pictures will become obvious to the interested viewer. The Academy is open from 10 a.m. — 7 p.m. daily and until 10 p.m. tonight. It costs DM 2.20 to see this exhibition of the 81-year-old woman, whose works are still a guiding light to many young artists today.

After many rather second-class boulevard pieces, Berlin has finally become lucky with a real hit at the "Renaissance Theater." Witty British humor, translated excellently into German, brings full houses almost every night. "Handicap" is the title of the amusing play which was written by Sir William Douglas Home, brother of former British Prime Minister Sir Alex Douglas Home. The lord, actor and playwright often used "his kind of people and his society" for the characters and background of his pieces. This makes the play believable and the characters real.

"Handicap" (original title "The Secretary Bird") had its premier in London in 1967 and has been in the repertoire of the Savoy Theatre ever since. The story is about an elderly gentleman whose younger wife is planning to get a divorce in order to run off with a young lover. A weekend in which the husband invites the lover, as well as his own young secretary to his country house, changes the picture completely. Undisputed star of the evening is Axel von Ambesser, who in a very charming manner portrays the English gentleman and wise husband, who wins the "battle" with his unbeatable humor. Performances are nightly at 8 p.m. Tickets can be purchased up to 10 days ahead of time at the theater box office, which is open from 10 a.m. until the performance.

"Mungo Jerry" fans rejoice! Friday, July 9, the crew consisting of Ray Dorset, Paul King, Colin Earl and Mike Cole will be the main attraction at the Sportpalast. Also part of their "baggage" are two Dutch groups, which have also made a name for themselves already, "Shocking Blue" and "Golden Earring." The pop evening called "In the Summertime" (maybe summer will have gotten here by next week) begins at 8 p.m. and costs DM 10 to attend. Tickets sell at the Sportpalast or at any ticket agency. The PX ticket agency is closed until Aug. 22.
